Militarist In Japan Peeved Over Naval Ratio

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Feb. 16.—Speaking on the naval ratio this morning in the House of Peers, Vice-Admiral Okada said that while it was true that Japan's first line of defense had been weakened it was also true that the same held good as regards the other Powers.

This statement failed to satisfy Baron Sakatani, who maintained that Japan should not have accepted the sixty percent ratio as the basis of discussion but should have insisted on an equal footing for all. He asked the strength of Japan's position at the expiration of the naval holiday.

Vice-Admiral Okada replied that the spirit underlying the agreement assured that the Powers would take steps further to perpetuate limitations of the agreement upon the expiration of the naval holiday.

Tokio, Feb. 16.—During the Government budget debate, Mr. Reijiro Wakatsuki, ex-Minister of Finance, said that the "indifferent policy" of the Finance Minister aggravated the economic situation. He then referred to the retrenchment policy of the Western Powers in contrast with Japan's increasing military expenditure under the pretext of completing a national defense plan.

'Temps' Criticises Russ Propaganda

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Feb. 16.—The pro-Russian propaganda in France has received a severe rebuff from the Temps, which, commenting on M. Krassin's suggestions for negotiations with France independently of the Genoa Conference, says that the diplomacy of Moscow is reminiscent of Abdul Hamid and declares that Russia's recognition of her debts, guarantees for foreigners and the carrying out of the Cannes resolution, are fundamental necessities. France, the paper adds, will not bargain with the Soviet Government behind the backs of the Allies.

Paris, Feb. 16.—M. Poincare today declared in the Chamber that there was no question of France's recognising the Soviet Government. The French attitude, he said, was unchanged.

Shareholders In Banque Combine To Fight Payment

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Feb. 16.—The Senate Finance Committee considered M. Jeannerey's report upon the Banque Industrielle de Chine bill which recommends the adoption in its entirety of the text proposed by the Government and voted by the Chamber of Deputies.

It is stated in parliamentary circles that associations of shareholders of the Banque Industrielle are being formed to take concerted action in refusing to pay the last two quarters' instalments due on their shares. It is suggested that they will be supported by the Peking Syndicate which holds 17,000 shares and by the National Italian Bank which holds 3,700 shares. It is expected that both these banks will appeal to the laws of their respective countries in support of the refusal to meet any further call.

Speaking at Memorial exercises for the dead of the battleship Maine of the Spanish-American War, Navy Secretary Denby said that the army and navy of the United States are of reasonable size and of that excellent quality necessary to the safety, dignity and prestige over its own possessions as any great power.

SECRECY OF PACIFIC PACT NEGOTIATION STIRS SENATE

Resolution Asks Harding For All Facts

LODGE EXPLAINS

Assures Colleagues There's Nothing To Conceal

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Feb. 16.—The Senate has passed a resolution asking President Harding for full information regarding the negotiation of the Pacific Treaty.

Senator Lodge and Senator Underwood, who were both members of the American Delegation, assured the Senate that there was nothing to conceal. Senator Underwood explained that a great part of the negotiations concerning the abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance would not be found in the minutes as the subject was mostly discussed in informal conversations.

Replying to Senator Hitchcock's remark that the Senate and the House of Representatives seemed to have been on the outside while the Four Power pact was being worked out, Senator Lodge said that the conversations were between the heads of the delegations, as that was the simplest way of dealing with so delicate a situation. The treaty however, Mr. Lodge added, was fully discussed by the American delegates long before it was submitted to the other delegations.

Salt Revenue For Year $77,987,838

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb. 17.—The net Salt Revenue, after meeting administrative expenses, paid in to the group banks in 1921 amounted to 77,987,838 dollars, representing a decrease of 1,076,265 dollars as compared with 1920 and a decrease of 2,618,665 as compared with 1919.

All obligations secured on the Salt Revenue were fully met and the surplus released to the Government in 1921 amounted to 70,474,331, of which, however, some eighteen millions represent sums either retained locally or appropriated by the provincial or military authorities.

The decrease as compared with 1920 is explained by the facts that certain amounts, retained by the local authorities, had not been transferred to the group banks by the end of the year, and also there was increased expenditure on compensation for the acquisition by the Government of certain preferential rights of salt merchants and the purchase of property.

The actual collections in 1921 exceeded those of 1920. During 1921 the reserve in the group banks was increased from $6,000,000 to 7,000,000.

END OF STRIKE AT HONGKONG IS BELIEVED NEAR

Falling Off Of Requisitions For Workers On Shanghai Is Hopeful Sign

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Feb. 17.—British and American special constables have been notified that their services at present are no longer required.

Advices received yesterday from Hongkong by shipping companies contained no reports of new developments in the strike of seamen and cargo carriers. As requisitions on Shanghai for workers to replace those who have quit at Hongkong have fallen off in the past several days however, the belief continues to gain ground that the controversy is nearing an end.

Following the sailing from Hongkong of the steamers China and the Monteagle, the Empress of Japan probably will leave Hongkong shortly, but the exact day of sailing has not been announced. The China Mail steamer Nile, having been taken from the run in southern waters, has been held at Hongkong by the strike for some time and the company's steamer Nanking which passed through Shanghai southbound a week ago also is being hampered by the tie-up. Trans-Pacific passenger ships of other lines have been delayed but slightly or not at all by the strike.

Messrs. Jardine Matheson & Co., agents of the Indo-China Steam Navigation Company, have not received any further instructions to despatch Ningpo seamen to Hongkong.

The Blue Funnel liner Agapenor, which has been discharging part of her Hongkong cargo here, sails for London on February 23. If the strike is not over by the time she is scheduled to sail she will not call at Hongkong.

The company is not booking any passengers for Hongkong at present nor taking any cargo for that port. The Hongkong merchandise that has been discharged here will be moved to Hongkong by the first opportunity, and should the deadlock not come to an end by February 23 the balance of the Hongkong freight will be unloaded here.

The Ajax, another of the Blue Funnel fleet, which has left Singapore on her way from London, will not call at Hongkong but will discharge her cargo destined for that port and also her Hongkong passengers in Shanghai.

The offices of the Canadian Pacific Steamship are not yet in receipt of any advices about the sailing from Hongkong of the Empress of Japan. Possibly she may leave when the Monteagle arrives in Shanghai on Saturday.

FIVE BILLION BONUS FOR SOLDIERS BIG ISSUE IN U. S.

Intense Agitation Over American Legion Demands

SOLONS PUZZLED

Harding Proposes Tax On Sales, But Is Opposed

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Feb. 16.—Intense agitation has been evoked throughout the country by the proposal to give a bonus to the soldiers who participated in the war which, it is estimated, will cost $5,000,000,000.

President Harding has informed Congress that he considered a general sales tax the only feasible means of raising the funds for this purpose, otherwise, he thought it would be wise to postpone the bonus until conditions justified the outlay.

(China Press Service)

Washington, Feb. 16.—Considerable discussion has arisen among Congressmen as to methods whereby the Soldiers' Bonus may be financed and appropriations for other objects may come in for a vigorous slashing.

It has been suggested that because of the naval holiday, the Navy estimates may be reduced $20,000,000 and the Army bill given a corresponding cut. Meantime the advocates of the sales tax and tobacco tax are pressing their campaigns with great vigor.

It is hoped by some of the Congressmen who are in the quandary of having to bear heavily on interests that already are highly taxed, that President Harding may send a message to Congress suggesting appropriate taxation to meet the demands of the soldiers.

Prince Of Wales Sees Great Durbar

(Reuter's Service)

Delhi, Feb. 17.—The great durbar convened by the Viceroy in the old Fort Delhi on Thursday afternoon was profoundly impressive as a spectacle, but it did not go beyond this.

Lord Reading in welcoming the Prince of Wales in the name of the Government of India, again emphasised the point that the Prince's visit was not associated with politics; that he had come out, in his own words, to know the people and to let the people know him, and that His Royal Highness was spendidly fulfilling this mission.

This effectually disposes of the very prevalent idea that the visit of the Prince of Wales to the Capital might be marked by some announcement of an important character.

This morning the Prince laid the foundation stone of the Kitchener Memorial College for the sons of Indian officers in the new capital, amid a fine scene of military pageantry.

Tomorrow night His Royal Highness will be the guest of the ruling Indian Princes and chiefs at a banquet of characteristic splendor.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Feb. 17.—The Budget Committee of the House of Representatives decided today to set aside the sum of ¥187,000 as the expenditure for the entertainment of the Prince of Wales.

Appointment Of Minister Held Up

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 16.—In the House of Commons today at question time, asked whether the Minister of Defence recommended in the Geddes' report would be appointed forthwith to examine the Washington decisions with a view to further economies in the naval estimates, Mr. Austen Chamberlain said that the Government was still undecided whether to make this so extensive change in the present year. The possibility of combining certain elements of the three services would be explored by technical sub-committees of the Imperial Defence Committee.

Shanghai, As Figures Show,

—:o:— —:o:— —:o:— —:o:—

But It Labors Under Some Heavy Handicaps

—:o:— —:o:— —:o:— —:o:—

Is Quite A Healthy Town

One hears a lot these days about the "public health." And exponents and advocates of systems for its betterment are received with loud cheers by the populace. Yet how many foreigners in Shanghai allow their interest in the matter to carry them further than applause, to investigate, for instance, the sources of their clothing, food and drink? The following two enlightening incidents in this connection came to attention in the Mixed Court yesterday:

Dzien Yoong-tsang is the licensee of a foreign tailor shop located at 201 Boundary Road. The day before yesterday his premises were visited by Sanitary Inspector J. E. Fensham.

In his tour of the establishment the Inspector came into the main workroom. Here he found a three-year-old girl suffering from smallpox. The proprietor of the place declared that the girl had just come in from the country and that this was the reason for no report having been turned in to the Department. The man's wife, questioned separately, said that the girl lived next door.

In court yesterday after the serious aspects of the case had been emphasised by Assessor Hutchison and Magistrate Tsang and the Sanitary Inspector had urged a heavy penalty, the tailor admitted that the child was that of a neighbor who had gone away on a trip and left it in his care. He pleaded that he had not known that she was ill.

The court imposed a fine of $100 and administered a stern warning.

A chance suspicion led Sanitary Inspector R. W. Burton to investigate the source of supply of milk being distributed in the Settlement by a corps of four coolies. He found that the product came from an unlicensed dairy maintained by one Moo Ahpoo in Chapei.

The bottles, however, bore the seal and initial of a licensed dairy located within the Settlement and run, nominally, by a foreigner. Moreover, the baskets in which the milk was delivered, bore the licensed dairy's insignia. The milk itself, the Inspector found, was being bottled in a dark, filthy and unventilated bedroom, amid other surroundings which he described as more resembling a "cesspool" than anything else.

Further investigation revealed the fact that the dairyman operated another such place in Chapei and that he also owned the establishment in the Settlement, the name of the foreigner being obviously used as a blind and the bulk of the milk supply furnished under the chop of the licensed place coming from the establishments outside. The name of the foreigner unfortunately did not come out in the court proceedings.

The dairykeeper was fined $100.

PORTUGUESE CO. BREAKS RECORD FOR MOBILISING

99 Of 101 Men Meet And Arm In 55 Minutes

Fifty-five minutes after a test mobilisation call had been sent out at 8:30 o'clock last night the entire Portuguese Company of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps with the exception of two members who are ill had turned out fully armed and equipped at the mobilisation point at the Shanghai Catholic Circle in Nanzing Road.

The Company has 101 members and 99 uniformed men were in line when the inspection was held last night by Major Canning who took occasion, in a brief address, to express keen appreciation of the showing that had been made.

Test calls for the various units of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps are sent out through the year. Units are apprised of a period in which they will receive a test call, as, for instance the Portuguese Company had been informed that it would be called some time between February 15 and February 28, but the exact time of the call was not announced.

ENGINEER FALLS FROM GANGPLANK AND IS DROWNED

Third Engineer Hutchinson Of Tangistan Loses Life In Whangpoo

Investigation following the drowning of Third Engineer G. Hutchinson of the steamer Tangistan disclosed yesterday that the tragedy was the outcome of an accident in which the victim slipped and fell from a gangplank into the river.

The Tangistan, which arrived here recently from Singapore was moored at the old Ningpo wharf. It is thought that when Hutchinson started to go aboard late Thursday night he lost his balance and in falling struck his head either against the ship's side or against the pier, causing himself to lose consciousness. The body was recovered yesterday morning by the river police. Hutchinson was a resident of Sydney, Australia.

ANY CHANGES IN FRONTIER MEANS WAR, CRAIG WARNS

Ulster Opposed To All Except Minute Alterations

MORE KILLINGS

Death Roll Now 36, With 89 In The Hospitals

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 16.—More shooting occurred in Belfast today. The death roll is now 36, while the number of persons removed to hospital amounts to 89.

The Northern Government has decided to enforce the Firearms Act, imposing a penalty of two years imprisonment for unlawful possession of arms.

The twenty-three persons who had been kidnapped were given a great reception at Aughnacloy on their return. They left seventeen Northerners in Trim gaol.

Mr. Charles Craig moved the Ulsterite amendment declining to proceed with the bill until the provision establishing a boundary commission, which, he asserted, was a violation of the rights of Ulster, had been eliminated, or the decision of the commission made subject to the approval of the Northern Parliament. He declared that if the commission made anything more than the minutest changes, bloodshed and chaos were inevitable.

Mr. O. D. Reid (unionist) seconded the amendment.

NO CHANGE

The subsequent debate revealed no change in the attitude of the parties towards the treaty since its ratification. The Attorney-General, who avoided attempting to throw light on the interpretation to be placed on the wording of the treaty, said, regarding the commission, that a gentleman of ripe judicial experience would be appointed chairman.

The only further item of interest in the debate, which was adjourned, was Mr. Chamberlain's pointed approval of Brother Neville's remark, that he understood that the Boundaries Commission would only adjust boundaries and not transfer large territories.

London, Feb. 16.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Churchill moved the second reading of the Irish Free State bill. He emphasised the urgency of legalising the powers of the Provisional Government to enable the holding of an election as early as possible. The present position of the men wielding power without legal authority was, he said, an anomaly unprecedented in the history of the Empire (ironical unionist cheers.)

Mr. Churchill declared that it was very desirable that Irish people at the election should definitely reject the idea of a republic and secure an adequate constituent assembly to represent future hope and not past hate as the present parliament is doing. Delay in the passage of the bill would mean futher anarchy and bloodshed.

CHURCHILL HOPEFUL

Mr. Churchill expressed the hope that despite the inhuman passions exemplified in Belfast, the heads of the two Irish governments would meet shortly. The Irish Parliament would possibly frame a constitution in May or June after which the Imperial Parliament would pass confirmatory legislation.

The next step, he said, was Ulster's consideration of the constitution before exercising the option to enter the Free State. There was a difference regarding the date to exercise the option but the Irish Ministers had not insisted on their interpretation of the treaty in that connection. Nevertheless, it was unlikely that the boundary commission would begin work before August and the settlement of the boundaries was not likely to take place before October.

The recent discussion between Sir James' Craig and Mr. Michael Collins on the boundary question was obviously premature, but Mr. Churchill denied that the agreement had broken down. There had been a bad setback but the situation was being repaired and restored

PRISONERS FREED

London, Feb. 16.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Churchill announced that 26 of those persons who had been kidnapped have been released by the exertions of the Provisional Government.

Mr. Churchill read the Northern Government's report on the Monaghan affair which conflicted with that of the Provisional Government. He had, he said, communicated with both Governments and they had both considered an impartial enquiry desirable.

He had therefore notified them that the Imperial Government would place at their disposal a judicial officer if it would be agreeable to both governments to hold a public enquiry.

MANY GAMBLERS GIVE LIBERALLY TO COURT FUNDS

Gamblers contributed liberally to the chancellor of the Mixed Court exchequer yesterday.

In consequence of a raid conducted by Inspector Sinclair on a "yau tan" game at 119 Changsha Road the proprietor was fined $200 and thirty-two devotees of the domino were assessed $10 each. The manager of the place told the court that he had previously been engaged in the tea business and had lost a lot of money, friends later subscribing the funds necessary to open up the gambling establishment.

The houseboy, coolie and cook responsible for the long series of gaming parties held in the servants' quarters at 30 Peking Road, residence of Attorney F. W. Hadley, were yesterday ordered to pay $50 each for their experiences. Mr. Hadley testified that at times as many as 60 or 80 persons enjoyed the servants' hospitality and the din was something to marvel about, while the refuse left around had excited the ire of the Health Department.

Another $50 was forthcoming from a shopkeeper responsible for operations at 30 Bing Yong Ka.

Hsiung Hsi-ling Says No Politics Attach To His Visit Here

Interviewed at the Yih Ping Shang Hotel where he is staying at present, Hsiung Hsi-ling, former Premier, said that his object in coming to Shanghai is to participate in the meetings of the Society for the Reform of National Education. He denied having any intention of attending the National Administrative Conference.

He said he had written to Chao Heng-ti, Tuchun of Hunan, Mr. Hsiung's own province, urging the suppression of brigandage and the opium evil in Hunan, but he has found little improvement in the situation there. Mr. Hsiung wishes to visit Hangchow shortly but the trip, he emphasised, will be devoid of political significance.

Finance Revision Inquiry In Japan

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Feb. 16.—In the House of Peers today, at question time, Mr. Reijiro Wakatsuki asked whether the Government intended to employ the financial surplus arising out of the reduction of land-forces of Japan as general administrative expenses, and added that the people at large were eagerly desirous for a lightening of their heavy burden.

Replying, Premier Takahashi stated that though the Government was not yet confident to what extent Japan's finances might be relieved through the proposed reduction of her land-forces, it had already started an investigation.

Service Men Plan Banquet For Joffre

In connection with the impending visit to Shanghai of Marshal Joffre the French veterans' organisation—the Association des Anciens Combattants Francais—is arranging to hold a dinner at which the Marshal will be guest of honor.

Invitation has been extended by the French organisation to the male members of the United Services Association to participate in the affair and it is planned to hold the dinner on March 10 or 11. Members of the United Services Association desirous of attending should notify Mr. H. J. West, acting honorary secretary, at the Glen Line building not later than February 28. Further particulars regarding the dinner will be announced later.

Coolies Are Charged With Robbing Sailors

Two coolies alleged to have been members of the gang which robbed four Singhalese sailors from the steamer City of Simla of $120 Wednesday night were charged at the Mixed Court yesterday and the case was remanded for a week to give the police opportunity to round up more of the robbers. One of the men was seen and recognised by one of the victims, R. Alvis, Thursday and after his arrest gave the names of others. The Singhalese were taken into a dark alleyway by their ricsha coolies and were then set upon.

$96,000,000 Loan Not Yet Accomplished Fact

(Chung Mei News Agency)

Peking, Feb. 15.—The $96,000,000, eight percent, refunding and consolidation loan signed on January 26 between the Peking Government and the Chinese Bankers' Association, acting in behalf of a number of Chinese and other banks that had made the so-called irregular or unauthorised loans to the Government on the security of the salt surplus, is not yet an accomplished fact. Indeed, obstacles have arisen which make it doubtful whether the loan can be carried out on its present basis.

One of the greatest obstacles in the way of the loan is that interest on the Nishihara loans is among the loans covered by it. When Mr. Ono was in Peking last Summer to ascertain what could be done about repayment of the Nishihara loans, he succeeded in negotiating with the Chin Yun-peng Government an agreement covering interest due on these loans up to that time. This agreement formed one of the many irregular loan agreements secured on the Salt Surplus. It also constituted recognition on the part of the Peking Government of the Nishihara loans.

Considerable objection is already being made in many quarters to payment of the Nishihara loans interest, and this objection is now being used in these quarters as an argument against the $96,000,000 loan, which includes the Ono interest arrangement.

Another of the clauses of the loan contract stimulates that the salt surplus shall, for the time being, be used as security for interest and amortisation payments on the loan, and that after one year the additional customs' surplus resulting from the increase of the tariff to an effective five percent shall be set aside as first security for the loan, the salt surplus is reserved as second security in the event that the additional customs' surplus is not sufficient to meet the annual interest and amortisation payments.

Sir Reginald Gamble, Associate Inspector General of the Salt Gabelle, has consented to the use of the salt surplus as a security for the refunding and consolidation of irregular loans made on the salt surplus in past years. Indeed, when the Government applied to him for authorisation for the $14,000,000 salt surplus loan with which to carry it itself over the Chinese New Year, Sir Reginald gave his consent on two conditions.

First, that there should be no more loans on the salt surplus, and second that the irregular loans then secured on the salt surplus should be refunded and consolidated within two months after the Chinese New Year.

Failing this, Sir Reginald informed the Government, foreign sanction of the $14,000,000 New Year Loan would be withdrawn, thus leaving that loan on the same basis as many other irregular loans secured on the salt suplus.

Sir Francis Aglen, Inspector-General of Customs, has never, however, given his sanction to the use of the hoped-for additional customs surplus for the $96,000,000 refunding and consolidation loan. Sir Francis is stated to believe that the clause in the loan contract that sets aside as security for the loan that part of the customs surplus that the Government expects to obtain as a result of the coming increase in the Customs Tariff to an effective five percent is illegal.

On Saturday Sir Francis wrote to the parties to the $96,000,000 loan informing them of this opinion, stating that customs surplus is customs surplus and that raising the Tariff from its present scale to an effective five percent will not create a special surplus, but simply, if all goes well, more surplus.

As Sir Francis has a first lien on the customs surplus for the Reorganised Domestic Bonds, for the payment of interest and principal on which he assumed responsibility last Spring at the Government's own request, it stands to reason that the Government cannot designate the hoped-for increase in the customs surplus after the tariff has been raised to an effective five percent to the service of the $96,000,000 loan. This of course will have to take its chance after the domestic bond payments have been looked after, and thus the security by which the loan is covered diminishes considerably in value.

Charge Of Murder Against Canton Labor Head Denied

Spokesmen of marine workers here in sympathy with the striking seamen at Hongkong deny the charges of murder for which Chen Ping-sung, president of the Seamen's Association of Canton recently was arrested. It is asserted that the charge against the suspect that he murdered his wife is untrue and grows out of the labor controvery in which Chen has been particularly active.

Chen, according to the report, was arrested only after he had fought with the Chinese police, and two policemen were seriously injured by him. His wife is said to have made an ante-mortern statement accusing him of the crime. Police are also hunting for another official of the union alleged to have been implicated. Strikers' representatives assert the story is propaganda intended to hurt their cause.

SZE AND KOO DECLINE

Both Alfred Sze and Wellington Koo, the two delegates to the Disarmament Conference, have refused to assist in the organisation of a new Cabinet, according to the Dah Tong News Agency and will not come back to China for the present. Dr. W. W. Yen, the Foreign Minister and Acting Premier, has suggested Hu Wei-teh, the retiring Minister to Tokio as premier. Yen is said to be determined to relinquish his post whether he is able to secure a ministership to some foreign country or not.

The scope of the society which is styled "The China Reform Society" is nation-wide and the question of adequate educational financing, it is stated, marks only the initial stage of its activities. It has among its members men who are recognised as the leaders of young China, such as Chang Chien, Tsai Yuan-pei, Sun Hu, P. W. Kuo, David Yui, C. C. Nieh, H. Y. Moh and others.

AN ESSENTIAL FOR PROMOTION.
In the Saturday Evening Post of January 14th, J. R. Sprague deals with the question of why many young men are not promoted more rapidly in the organizations where they are employed.
He writes: "In preparing this article I talked with perhaps 75 business men, big and little . . . There was one point on which the verdict was unanimous: it is labor wasted to try to train any one for the managership of business who keeps himself habitually in debt, who shows he cannot finance his own affairs intelligently."

British Women's Association Notes

The following members have joined the Association since our last notice: Miss Helen Chadderton, Mrs. A. Ruthven Watson, Mrs. L. A. Fullbrook and Mrs. L. A. Westcott.

Notices for the annual general meeting of the Association, to take place in the Lyceum Theater at 5:15 p.m. on Wednesday, March 15, should reach members by Sunday or Monday and it is hoped that these will receive careful consideration. Among important measures to be then brought forward will be (1) financial arrangements for the ensuing year, (2) increasing the executive committee from 12 to 13 members and (3) electing a body of women to represent all sections of the British community to form such executive. The procedure to be adopted will be that the present committee will all go out of office but will be eligible for re-election. They will have, however, to be nominated in precisely the same way that new candidates for election are nominated. Nomination forms attached to the circular referred to are provided for the purpose—each member being allowed to make one nomination. Any member whose circular and nomination form have failed to reach her, say, within the next four days should communicate with the Secretary at Headquarters. All norminations of candidates for the Executive Committee must reach the Secretary, duly filled in with names and addresses of the candidate, proposer and seconder, not later than February 27.

GARDENING SECTION

It is hoped to announce the first lecture and demonstration of the Spring series for March 3 and subsequently on alternate Fridays throughout the season. Details will shortly be in the hands of members of the Section. A general meeting of the Section will be called for March 7, at Headquarters when a committee and officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Members wishing to make nominations should communicate with the Honorary Secretary, Mrs. Pardoe, 3 Tifeng Road. Members of this Section and anyone interested in gardening are informed that a number of packets of specially fine dahlia seeds are now at their disposal. The packets contain 35 selected seeds in each, together with detailed instructions for their development. These may be obtained on payment of one dollar from the Secretary at Headquarters, the proceeds to be donated to the funds of the Social Service Board.

LITRARY and ART SECTIONS

Members of the above Sections are reminded that Professor Osvald Siren's lecture at the Country Club will take place on Monday next. This lecture—on Chinese and European Art—will be illustrated by a series of most interesting lantern slides, many of which have been especially prepared for this occasion, and a number of valuable Chinese pictures, some of which have been lent by Dr. Stafford Cox and Mr. Strehlneek will also be exhibited. The members of the above Sections will be "at home" to all members of the B.W.A. and members of the Country Club are also most cordially invited. Tickets of admission may be obtained by B.W.A. members from Mrs. Cromarty, 9 Kiukiang Road. Tea will be served at 4:30 p.m.

MUSICAL SECTION

Another most attractive program has reached us from the Musical Section, to be presented on Friday, February 24, at 5:15 p.m. and this has been arranged by Mrs. N. G. Maitland and her friends.

1. Piano Solo Mrs. R. D. Simpson
2. Vocal Quartette "Strange Adventure" Sullivan's "Yeoman of the Guard" Mrs. Burrett, Mrs. Peebles, Mr. Dumbarton, Mr. Maitland.

   Mr. O. M. Green.

8. Vocal Quartette "Madrigal" from the "Mikado" Sullivan
   Mrs. Burrett, Mrs. Peebles, Mr. Dumbarton, Mr. Maitland.

SPORTS SECTION

The Badminton Club started its tournament on Wednesday last and this will continue for about three weeks. Steady practice throughout the Winter season has produced some very good players and there are several pairs now who are prepared to challenge all comers. Tea is provided on Saturday afternoons. The Committee of this Section is anxiously looking out for available tennis courts for the forthcoming season. Two or more courts are needed, preferably near (but not necessarily) the Central district. Anyone knowing of such which might be let is asked to be good enough to communicate at once with the Honorary Secretary to the Sports Section. C/o B. W. A., 9 Kiukiang Road.

DRAMATIC SECTION

The Dramatic Section will be "at home" to members of the B. W. A. on Monday, February 27, at 5:30 p.m. at Headquarters, when an excellent variety program, which includes duologues, recitations songs and story-telling, will be presented. Such names as Mrs Aliste, Campbell, Miss Vera Doria (Mrs. John Snodgrass), Mrs. Jory, Mrs. H. Y. Irwine and Mrs. Baker promise a delightful entertainment, which, being the first of its sort, is awaited with keen interest on the part of B. W. A. members.

Tables for tea may be reserved for parties on application to the Manageress at Headquarters.

SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE

Members of Hospitals Aid Department are to hold their inaugural meeting on Tuesday next, February 21, from 3 to 6:30 p.m. and on each successive Tuesday following. The frequency of these meetings is in order to give every member of the League (and all others who are interested and good enough to attend) the opportunity of coming at least once or twice a month, for one, two or three hours as they can spare the time for this much needed work. Bandaging machines and material will be in readiness at the first meeting. It is also suggested that those who are willing to augment the funds of this department should make fancy articles or anything saleable which might assist the department to go ahead for the benefit of British hospitals in China. The loan of two or three sewing machines or bandage rollers would be greatly appreciated and anyone having such is asked to communicate with Mrs. Dovey C/o the B.W.A., 9 Kiukiang Road.

FINAL DETAILS WORKED OUT FOR WASHINGTON BALL

Meeting Of Committees Held And Dress Rehearsal Is Staged At Town Hall

Final details of the plans for the George Washington Ball that is to take place next Wednesday evening at the Town Hall were discussed and reports from the various committees were heard yesterday at a meeting of those arranging the affair held at the residence of Mr. E. S. Cunningham, American Consul-General.

The entire historial dance pageant which is to be an outstanding feature of the ball was rehearsed in costume last night at the Town Hall and it is understood that another and a final dress rehearsal is to be held.

Active work of putting in place the elaborate decorations that will transform the great auditorium of the Town Hall into the semblance of a Colonial estate will be begun on Monday. At one end of the hall the home of George Washington on the Potomac is to be reproduced with faithful accuracy and this structure is to face a lawn that will be the dancing floor. In connection with the scheme of decoration an intricate system of colored lighting effects is to be arranged.

Complete reports of those who have been receiving applications for invitations have not yet been compiled, but it is known that the total now is near the number of one thousand originally fixed.

Wusih Butchers Strike Because Of Exorbitant Tax

(China Press Correspondence)

Wusih, Ku., Feb. 16.—The butchers' strike in this hsien (county) still continues. No meat can be bought anywhere. This strike is worthy of notice because the reason for it throws a great deal of light on the present condition of government in China.

The butchers' strike is against an exhorbitant tax that is being levied on butchers. The tax is an old one but formerly was not exhorbitant. The right to collect this tax is farmed out each year for each county in China. Bids are submitted for the right to levy this tax and the government grants the right to the highest bidder.

The highest bidder, having been given the right and the power to collect this tax, proceeds to recoup himself for what he has paid by levying a tax on the butchers for each hog killed. Before the Revolution and for two or three years afterward the right to levy the tax for this county could be bought for about $1,000.

Shortly after the Revolution the price began to go up and go up rapidly until for the year 1921 the man who contracted with the government for the privilege of levying this tax paid the comparatively enormous sum of $32,500 or about thirty two times what it cost before the Revolution. He in his turn collected from the butchers $1.20 for each pig they killed. This so ate into the butchers' profits that many of them are threatened with bankruptcy.

For 1922 another man has outbid last year's tax farmer, paying $37,500.00 and lately has begun to levy $1.50 for each pig. Heretofore the butchers have met these increased taxes by raising the price of pork, but last year the price was raised more than the market could stand and the sales fell off badly. On this account the butchers have decided to close down rather than pay additional amount on the already high tax.

Sun's Army Ready To March North

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, Feb. 15.—According to a certain influential member of the Mintung Party, Dr. Sun's scheme for the despatch of his expeditionary force against the North is making a steady progress. Troops under the command of General Li Lieh-chun are advancing in the direction of Chuanchow, and preparations in the matter of food-supply and communications in general have been nearly completed.

Meantime, fifty chests of ammunitions and one brigade of bearer companies were transported northward yesterday. Contingents of the Red Cross Society are making preparations to start for the front.

Advices that have reached Chinese quarters here report that the troops under the command of General Chang Fu-lai stationed in Yochow are quietly withdrawing to the North owing to the necessity of preparing for a campaign against the Fengtien troops and of pacifying popular feeling in Hunan.

A mandate bearing the name of Generalissimo dated Feb. 3 has been issued, appointing, General Hsiao Ju-lin as Commander of the Kueichow troops under direct command of Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

CHINESE TO AID IN RUSSIAN FAMINE RELIEF WORK

Prominent Chinese will serve on the newly organised Russian Famine Relief Committee, according to an appeal sent to the Chinese Chambers of Commerce, Educational Associations, newspapers and Y. M. C. BILLIARD FINAL TONIGHT WILL GO TO MAN FEELING FIT, OLD TIMER DECLARES

Porter Or Johnson, Clashing At Town Hall In Two Sessions Of 800 Points Each For Amateur Title, Will Win Or Lose On Billiard "Form"

Mr. C. W. Porter, holder of the amateur billiard championship for Shanghai, will defend his title at the Town Hall tonight against a young old-timer, Mr. R. C. K. Johnson, in two sessions commencing at 5:15 and 9:15, of 600 points each.

The match has more than usual interest inasmuch as Johnson, playing for the first time for the singles title of Shanghai, is taking a place as favorite in the judgment of billiard enthusiasts for tonight's big session.

Johnson according to some local billiard followers who know his play better than this winter's championship rounds has revealed, is Porter's superior at the game, and, given his fair share of billiard "luck" should take the title for 1922 in a fashion that will surprise Porter's adherents.

Porter, on the other hand, is a veteran in Shanghai Billiard circles. He has won the trophy five times in all, and once has taken it outright. His record of wins was set up in 1921, 1920, 1917, 1916 and 1914. He plays an all round game, and has a wonderful faculty, when the game appears to be all against him, and defeat is certain, of finishing in whirlwind style to a win. This asset of the champion's was shown even in the last semi-final against Mr. E. D. Bush, when the latter had the match to within a few points of winning, only to be overtaken and beaten, is counted upon to bring Porter through, in spite of Johnson's best efforts.

A factor that will figure largely tonight, billiard fans say, is temperament, and nervous fitness and condition for the fray. One veteran near-champion explained the point by stating that the match must go to the man who is "with his game." According to this authority both Porter and Johnson have been off their best game since early in the tournament. "The man that feels the fitter will win" he said, and there may be something to it.

Porter has been beaten twice since he qualified for the final over the best billiardists in his section, once by E. W. Fasting 300-103, and again by E. D. Bush 300-181. Johnson has suffered defeat once, to J. P. de Campos, 300-165. These three games were played in inter-club competition. The Champion and the runner-up both were off playing form on those nights, and either of them may be off form tonight.

"The championship will go to the man on his game" the old timer says. But he doesn't attempt to predict who it may be.

STROKESIDE WIN OVER S.A.S. FIVE BY 39-17 SCORE

The Shanghai American School basketball five lost one of their two remaining league games to the Strokeside last night, and, it would seem, lost their last good chance of finishing out on the season's play, in possession of third place in the standings. The score was Strokeside 39, School 17.

The game was spoiled somewhat by a floor too slippery. It had been waxed for dancing and had not been cleaned by game time. The two teams were forced to wait for the big wash up. But even then wax stuck to the planks and when play was started the game became a test of ability to maintain one's equilibrium.

The School played the Rowing Club men a hard game. They were, in fact, at their best. But the experience, the size, the strength and the speed of the Strokesiders told at every stage of the play. The finish was never in doubt.

Neprud counted 21 points for his team, on 10 field goals and one free throw. Johnson and Goldman, the two forwards scored 5 and 3 goals each, and H. Nash one more from guard. Shipley, Squires and Wiens scored the School's 17 points.

The summary follows:

Strokeside 39,		Am'n School 17
Goldman	RF	Shipley
Johnson	LF	Wiens
Neprud	C	Squires
E. Nash	LG	Chase
H. Nash	RG	Waters

Goals from floor—Goldman 3, Johnson 5, Neprud 10, H. Nash 1, Shipley 3, Squires 2, Wiens 2.

Goals from fouls—Squires 2, Wiens 1, Neprud 1.

Referee—Hirsh.

One game is on for today, a match set ahead from Feb. 21, between the "Y" and the Shanghai College faculty at Yangtszepoo, commencing at 4:30 p.m. The College men are trying to rush their schedule out because their captain, Kelhofer, leaves on the Golden State next week for the States. They will have but one more game to play after today, that with the Public School. This will be arranged within the next few days.

Harriers To Train For Handicap Run

A training run over a course of about three miles will be held by the Shanghai Harriers' Club this afternoon. The run will be over the course to be used for the 3½ miles handicap on Saturday, March 4. The usual packs will be arranged by the Club's Captain and Vice-Captain.

B. Lawrie Smith and Oliver Caldwell each have a leg on the silver cup over this handicap and have one more win to make the trophy the property of either. Caldwell beat Lawrie Smith by a few yards in the race last year with a number of other good runners close up. The handicap will be framed by Messrs. W. W. Bartlett, H. F. L. Wilson and C. C. Reneman.

Portuguese Sporting Ass'n Meets Feb. 26

The fourth annual general meeting of the members of the Portuguese Sporting Association will be held Sunday, February 26 at 11 a.m., at the Shanghai Catholic Circle. A new committee will be elected at the meeting, in accordance with the articles of association.

The report of the committee for the year shows a membership for the club of 150, of which 122 are playing members. A net profit for the year ending December 31, 1921 of $1,745.79 is shown in the accounts.

Hunt Handicap On Today With Many Ponies Entered

Cross Country Classic Starts From Old Handicap Bridge 3:30 p.m.

The annual handicap hunt of the Shanghai Paper Hunt Club will be run this afternoon, starting from the Old Handicap Bridge, on Brennan road, at 3:30 o'clock, and finishing at Bee Line. The hunt has the same list of riders and ponies entered as announced for a week ago when the handicap was postponed because of soft and wet country.

The course of the big hunt is not announced, though it is assumed to be different from that selected for the run last week, by reason of the different starting point. Last week's handicap was announced to start from Highland Grips, to Warren Lane, Suez, around the Lagoon, across Hungjao road to Dallas' grave and the water jump at Clear Water, finishing at Bee Line.

The going today should be good with the last few days of fairly dry weather, and it is anticipated that nearly all of the riders entered will turn out. The secretary, Mr. A. W. Olsen, anticipating a large field has announced that he will meet entrants at the starting point at 3 p.m. to check them in. Starters are warned to report to the secretary immediately on arrival at the start, with names of mounts.

A hunt for ladies will be run tomorrow starting from near Mrs. Liddell's bungalow on Hills road at 3:30 p.m. and finishing about one mile west of the start.

SIX FOOTBALL MATCHES ON THIS AFTERNOON; RECS AND S. F. C. TO PLAY BIG GAMES

First Elevens Of Clubs Meet On S. R. C. Field; Second Division Teams Play On S. F. C. Grounds; Two Matches Scheduled For Hongkew Park

The Football Club and the Recs play the feature matches in the first and second divisions of the League today. The big elevens meet on the Recs field, and the seconds play on the Club grounds. Two other first division matches are scheduled for Hongkew Park, and three second division games at the Race Course fill out the day's soccer card.

The match on the Recs field should furnish the best football of the day. The Club leading the league, and the Recs in third position, when they get together may always be depended upon for first class contests. The lighter Recs are considered as the cleverest football men in the city, and it is always expected that they may win, even when pitted against the league leaders. The Engineers, who are crowding the Club for first honors are on a bye.

The second division attraction, Club-Recs game perhaps will not furnish such close scoring as the two organisations' affair in the first division, but with the Club again leading the division they are certain to draw the crowd.

Another match that will give good football entertainment will be that between the Navy and the Rangers on the Police field. The clubs are fairly evenly matched and will keep the ball away from the nets for long periods.

The two other first division matches are between the Xaviers and the Customs, and the Police and Portuguese, both at Hongkew Park. The last second division match, between the Public School and the Jewish Recs complete the football program for the afternoon.

The following players have been announced for today's matches:

S. F. C., 1st XI—J. E. R. Harris, M. Tonkin (Capt.), G. F. Forshaw, P. Isherwood, J. Robertson, M. Serodkin, B. Lawrie Smith, L. Goldman, W. E. Dalley.

CLUB WOMEN HEAR SCHOLARLY TALK ON TAOISM

In a scholarly paper read before the Literary Department of the American Woman's Club yesterday afternoon at the Royal Asiatic Society's rooms, the Rev. Evan Morgan discussed the historical basis of Taoism, its great exponent Lao Tzu, its theoretic views of life and death and its results in the practices of everyday life.

Mr. Morgan holds that Taoism existed before Lao Tzu from a study of the volume entitled the Yin Fu Ching which has been handed down from the days of Tang and which is entitled to a foremost place in the national literature. Another book expressing the principles of the Taoist faith is the Kuan Yin Tzu by an author supposed to be a contemporary of Lao Chun. A third proof of the pre-existence of Taoism is the reference in the Tao Te Ching to a state of ideal society, a bygone age in which the ideals of Taoism formed the standard of everyday life.

IS ANTI-MILITARISTIC

Some of the tenets of Taoism which its followers were pledged to observe in their lives were humility, meekness, the spirit of peace and anti-militarism. While it has been termed a doctrine of inaction, the man who really lived up to its teachings is found to be a man of strenuous purpose. The idea of the Tao is so comprehensive as to be difficult to define, in fact Lao Tzu declared that no name could express it. In essence it seems not unlike what Herbert Spencer called "the great operating force behind all things."

Taoism today has degenerated into a cult of magic and superstitions, the speaker said, but its original ideals are far above the amulets and soothsaying connected with its present observance. In the "Age of Virtue" when men were supposed to live by its precepts all 'loved one another without knowing that to do so was benevolence" and men and beasts existed in true Garden of Eden style. Taoism has been compared to water, in that it is yielding, yet it cannot be controlled, gives to everything without exhausting itself and is contemporary with creation itself. That all joy rests in the possession of oneself and that death is merely a continuation of life, with nothing lost, were two of the great underlying principles of this faith.

"Glowing Comfort"

After the exhilaration of a cold day in the open, the growing comfort of a cosy fireside provides one of the great joys of life. With an electric radiator, lighted in an instant, diffusing warmth throughout a room immediately, this "fireside enjoyment" is always to hand and without necessitating the least labour in preparation, attention, or an after effect of dirty grates and untidy hearths.

Wireless Record Made Automatic

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, Feb. 12.—Mr. Shorin, a Russian engineer, has made a successful experiment in applying the apparatus "Untsdon-Bodo" to the wireless station operating between Moscow and Nijni-Novgorod. The new device greatly increases the capacity of wireless transmission, as the message transmitted is copied down automatically and therefore does not require the constant presence of an operator reading it by ear.

No Limitations For Aircraft

(New York Times)

THE conference has unanimously adopted a resolution that "it is not at present practicable to impose any effective limitation upon the numbers or characteristics of aircraft, either commercial or military." Aircraft include dirigibles, although the use of dirigibles in commerce is not now considered very seriously. It is true that the Germans talk of an Atlantic passenger service by lighter-than-air ships, but gales and electrical storms would make it hazardous. As a war machine, however, the dirigible is considered to be indispensable. Carrying many tons of high explosives, it could be terribly destructive. Protection to the dirigible might be afforded by a fringe of airplanes. It is to be regretted that the conference placed airplanes and lighter-than-air ships on the same plane as regards limitation. Because dirigibles might be put to commercial uses, not because they were actually being employed extensively, there was to be no attempt to restrict them as war machines.

Now airplanes are being employed extensively to carry passengers, express and freight. In the United States, where aviation does not have as much encouragement as it receives in Great Britain and on the Continent, civilian flying increased 20 percent in 1921 as compared with the preceding year. About 1,200 airplanes, it is estimated, were operated in 1921, and, according to Captain E. V. Rickenbacker, who made the statement at the dinner of the Aero Club recently, the number of miles flown was 6,500,000. He asserted that 275,000 passengers were carried. When one delegate after another said at the meeting of the Committee on the Limitation of Armaments that it seemed impossible to put any restriction upon the use of heavier-than-air craft, because the demands of commerce must be satisfied and the conversion of commercial into military planes could not be prevented, the sincerity of the speakers could not be doubted. Mr. Underwood advanced another excellent reason for doing nothing when he said that the airplane was as much an army as a navy machine and the conference was dealing only with naval limitation.

The conference, after restricting capital ship strength, forbidding submarine warfare upon merchant vessels and placing poison gases on the blacklist, admits its helplessness to curtail the sinister energies of the most dangerous and destructive instrumentality of modern war, the bombing airplane. The nation that commands the air will be the greatest military Power, first on sea as well as on land, and when the conference adjourns competition in building commercial planes and dirigibles that may be turned, almost overnight, into military aircraft may and will go on without the slightest hindrance. Rear Admiral W. F. Fullam (retired) did not exaggerate when he said at the Aero Club dinner that if the United States had a properly equipped air force no enemy fleet could come within 200 miles of the coast. The Admiral believes—and he has plenty of company in the navy—that the bombing airplane has rendered the capital ship practically obsolete. Therefore a ten years' construction holiday is no great sacrifice for any sea Power. The aim of every one will be to make preparations for war in the air and not be caught napping. There is a certain consolation, and room for hope that war may be made unattractive, in the proposal of another conference to regulate the use of aircraft in warfare.

The Last Leper Colony In England

(London Times)

The building known as the Homes of St. Giles looks like a cottage hospital. It stands among old trees, a few yards away from an English lane. There is nothing to indicate that it is the only remaining leper colony in Great Britain.

Indeed its very existence is unsuspected by most people. In the popular view leprosy is now a disease of the East alone. Few have any idea that it is still to be met with in London streets or that, from time to time, the small company of British lepers is augmented by the return of fresh victims stricken in outlying districts of the Empire

It is these unfortunates who have hitherto found an asylum and a new hope in life in this colony. They have come to it secretly. Many of them have spent years within its peaceful confines; a few have been discharged with their disease arrested; some have died. The need is continuous, if it is small in extent, for these men must be attended and nursed if they are to be saved from the state of wretchedness of those old-time victims of the disease who are among the most tragic of all the tragic figures of history.

Moreover, there is another side to the work. Leprosy is no more infectious than tuberculosis, yet an element of risk in connexion with it does exist. The terror in which the disease used to be held has largely been dissipated by closer study of it; but it remains sufficiently disastrous.

The St. Giles' Homes thus play a splendid and an inspiring part in the protection of the public health. They afford to the British victims of leprosy all the care and comfort which special knowledge and devotion of the purest ray can bring; on the other hand, they serve to ensure the community against a danger which, if not very great, is appreciable and incalculable.

A GRAVE THREAT

But the present financial stringency threatens already the existence of this refuge and makes an expansion to a size commensurate with the needs of the afflicted, who cannot at present be admitted, impossible. There is a danger that the lepers now under treatment may have to be sent back again to the world.

Such a tragedy is scarcely to be contemplated. For those who have founded these homes have in truth wrought an act of Christian love which is rare in the world. An English sisterhood of nurses has dedicated itself to the work of care and treatment; members of a brotherhood, also of the Church of England, perform the heavy work and the outdoor work of the colony. These men and these women make light of the danger to which they are exposed and will not permit of any expression of concern on their behalf. Yet they perform that which other men and other women would not, could not, perform.

Their lives, too, are given to the service. They seek no discharge from it. Experience has taught them that most elaborate care is necessary if their patients are to escape the worst pains of their sickness. And not care only but cheerfulness, kindness, love. The spirit of the Homes of St. Giles shines with a clear, strong light. You may see it in the beautiful church which the brothers of the Divine Compassion have builded in a disused barn; you behold it again in the little theater with its quaint stage setting which the same brave and kindly monks have furnished in another part of the grounds.

For in this colony of affliction there are dark and bitter nights to be lived through and long winter evenings when the shadow of despondency is very near. It is essential that there shall be something to do, something to think about, something over which to make merry. Here, as at St. Dunstan's, pity of the sentimental kind is at a great discount. It is courage, hope, usefulness which are the motives of action.

That spirit extends throughout the whole institution. It inspires the medical officers, Sir Malcolm Morris, Dr. McLeod, and Dr. Turner. At present they are using the new preparations of chaulmoogra oil and other similar oils of which such good reports have come from the East. It is too early as yet to make positive statements as to the result of this treatment, one form of which has the name of E.C.C.O., but hopes are high.

SOME OF THE CASES

Four new cases have recently been admitted. One of these, an elderly man who was educated at Westminster and has had much experience of the world, came to St. Giles' with his wife. Another patient, not yet 30, is a widower with one small child. He was born and educated in India and served during the war in British East Africa. Another, a young man of 25, almost blind and with helpless hands, was born in British Guiana and has lived in England since 1913. The fourth, a boy of 15, who was admitted last spring, lived only six months. He was an instance of an authenticated case of leprosy contracted in England. He was born in Manchester and had never been out of the British Isles; but his brother, who was abroad, died of leprosy five years ago at the age of 15. Before his condition was recognised the two brothers were naturally in close contact.

In the six years following the opening of the Homes of St. Giles no fewer than 15 cases have been received, five of them married men with their wives. The wives were in no case affected by the disease. One of these patients, in whom the disease seems to have been arrested, is now living with his wife in a neighboring cottage. He is thus within easy reach of the Homes nurses. Another left the Homes in order to make room for a more urgent case. The Homes are, further, in touch with four non-resident cases, to whom assistance in money or drugs, or both, has been given. Six patients have died in the Homes.

Princess Christian has just consented to become the Patron of the Homes of St. Giles. The Queen has sent a donation, and donations have also been received from Queen Alexandra and the Prince of Wales.

The nursing and general work are carried out by a sisterhood and brotherhood of the Church of England. The only conditon for admission is that the sufferer be a British subject and resident within the British Isles. Patients with means give what they can afford; those with none are equally welcome. There is little or no paid help. The patients are attended gratuitously by specialists from London, and by a practitioner resident in the neighborhood.

ARE YOU SCATTERING SUNSHINE?

Did you ever plan deliberately to do or say something on a certain day which would give pleasure to the recipient?

If you have not, you have missed a wonderful opportunity to get much joy out of life, yourself.

Daily you come in contact with persons you could make happier by a pleasant word from you.

A word of inquiry about some relative, who is ill, but not forgotten, would be appreciated as showing your interest in that person.

A cheerful "Good morning," is a tonic for a hard day.

A smile, for the boy from whom you buy your paper, would not hurt you.

A pleasant word to the elevator operator adds a little sunshine to monotonous occupation.

There are dozens of ways to scatter sunshine and they do not cost a penny in money, just goodwill toward your fellow men.

You ought to be willing to shed a good many rays of sunshine of this sort in the course of your work-a-day life and if you begin now you will the sooner know that little attentions of this sort bestowed on others return more gladness than you could possibly give.

With the final of the English Football Cup looming large, it is interesting to note how some of the most famous teams still going strong came from minute beginnings. Today being the day set apart to the great game, both here and elsewhere, let me devote "Maskee" to a story or so as to the start of many of our first class clubs in England.

* * *

THE SPURS

When, forty years ago, a few lads took it into their head to kick a football about on Tottenham marshes they little dreamt that they were cradling a club whose name was to be famous all over the world.

So empty were their pockets, that they had to send the hat round to raise sufficient money to buy the ball, while goalposts proved far beyond their resources. But if their equipment was poor, they were rich in enthusiasm, holding their meeting under a friendly gas lamp, they were the happiest lads in Middlesex as the "Hotspurs"—without the later addition of Tottenham.

They played their games valiantly for fifteen years without winning laurels, or notice worthy of the name. Then in the middle 'nineties, Mr. Frank Brettell took the reins into his capable hands, introduced some first rate professionals, and setting the ball rolling merrily to that crowning day when 110,000 spectators cheered them to their famous victory at the Crystal Palace.

* * *

THE SAINTS

A generation has passed since a few choir boys connected with St. Mary's Church, Southampton, joined hands and their small resources to form a football club, which from its church association, was dubbed the "Saints." This designation still clings, although for many years now the quondam choristers have been officially known as "Southampton."

* * *

PLYMOUTH ARGYLE

Plymouth Argyle had for its parents a few articled clerks and solicitors and architects, with a sprinkling of journalists, who, some thirty years ago, combined their forces and enthusiasm to found the Phoenix Football Club. Under this aspiring name the club lead a more or less precarious existence, until as Plymouth Argyle, it soon began to take a foremost place in the South West of England.

* * *

THE WANDERERS

The famous Bolton Wanderers had their cradling in the Christ Church schools of that town, when a few teachers and scholars formed a club, with the vicar as president and the schoolmaster as captain.

A penny a week was the cost of membership; and it was a proud day when the club scored its first victory against an insignificant local club.

From the public park at Bolton they emigrated to a field of their own renting, and a little later blossomed into the Bolton Wanderers.

* * *

THE VILLA

As long ago as 1874 a few members of a Birmingham Bible-class, associated with Aston Villa Wesleyan Chapel turned their thoughts to football. Subscribing two shillings each, they purchased a ball, dubbed themselves the Aston Villa Sunday School Football Club, and began to enjoy themselves thoroughly on a neighboring piece of waste ground.

Fortunately they had for their captain George Ramsey, a young Scotsman with a rare zeal for, and knowledge of, the game. Under his auspices the club quickly waxed strong. They soon had a ground of their own for which they paid five pounds a year, and were able to add five shillings and three pence to their exchequer as the fruits of their first "gate."

Today the club is not only one of the wealthiest in the country, but has a history in first league and cup football that cannot be beaten by any.

* * *

EVERTON

Everton has achieved fame from as humble a start as any of its rivals. In the 'seventies it had for its sponsors a few lads connected with a local Congregational church. In 1879 the club assumed the name of Everton, and it was not many years before it had reached the top of the League ladder.

* * *

THE UNITED

Newcastle United was in its origin a combination of two clubs of schoolboys, known as the East End and West End respectively.

* * *

SUNDERLAND

Sunderland owes its existence to James Allan, a Scottish schoolteacher, who, with a few of his fellow-dominies, formed a club under the name of the Sunderland Teachers' Association. The club had such a struggle for existence that it was once only saved from extinction by the raffling of a member's canary, which put two pounds into its empty "till."

Aviation's Progress

Some Facts And Figures Showing Advance That Has Been Made In Commercial Flying

BY C. D. LE FEVRE

Sections Secretary, Society of Automobile Engineers.

There has been so much exaggeration in the statements of the too hopeful optimists and in the remarks made by the no less sincere but equally misguided pessimists that the average person is considerably bewildered as to whether aviation is coming or going.

What is really needed from time to time is a progress report which will ignore the post-mortems and regrets about the past and which will equally abstain from long distance prophecies and such expressions as "the art of aviation is in its infancy."

Let us bring to light a few facts and figures of what has been done in commercial aviation. One foreign company reports that during the past Summer 725 flights were scheduled over regular runs; 613 of these were actually made. Over 160,000 miles were flown. There were no accidents of any kind to passengers or cargo.

In America one commercial company operating a number of lines reports during this year 95,020 miles flown, 6,814 passengers and 29,002 pounds of cargo carried, likewise with no accidents whatever to cargo, passengers or pilots. The schedule was maintained throughout with the exception of four forced landings on account of weather conditions.

The United States Air Mail Service gives evidence of the already dependable service which is possible. Out of 7,659 trips projected 7,081 were flown, nearly half of them through bad weather. A million and a half miles were flown. 45,000,000 letters were carried.

All are familiar with the transatlantic flights, but very little publicity was given to the trip from New York to Alaska by four planes under command of Capt. St. Clair Street. They expected to change engines for the return trip, but everything was working so beautifully that they came back with the same Liberty engines with which they started. Miles upon miles of the country over which they flew were of the roughest character and a forced landing would have been disastrous. The excellence of this performance was of course largely due to the fact that the machines were handled by men who were trained to the minute, but this feat also showed the dependability of the machines.

Little has been said in this account of accidents. Possibly that is the reason why so little newspaper publicity was given to the New York-Alaskan trip. Flying from point to point is no longer news. If some one is killed doing a fool circus stunt with the aid of an airplane it gets on the front page, but the everyday trips of the air-mail are scarcely mentioned. The popular idea of the dangers of aviation is exaggerated and will probably remain so until familiarity with this mode of transportation overcomes the natural fear of the unknown and the hesitancy with which we contemplate doing something new.

Accidents do happen, however, and they may be divided into two classes: those due to landing and those due to forced landing.

Properly prepared and marked landing fields, conveniently located along known airways, meteorlogical service with radio telephone communication between the operator and the ground and rigid inspection of planes will all help minimise the dangers of landing.

Better design of the power plant, including the air, gasoline and lubrication systems will help to reduce the possibility of forced landings.

The legal aspects are beginning to assume importance. There is at present practically no control. Any one can navigate any kind of aircraft. He may take passengers and may fly at low altitudes over closely populated cities where a forced descent would prove fatal not only to those in the plane but to the people in the crowd below. The Wadsworth bill now before the Senate provides for Federal licensing of aircraft and operators and should form a basis for such further regulation as may seem advisable. It will, incidentally, probably prevent the different States from passing regulative measures of their own which are apt to be contradictory to each other.

Landing fields are as necessary to aircraft as roads are to vehicular traffic and, as in the case of roads, will probably have to be built by the municipality or State, since it would be manifestly impossible from the standpoint of cost for the pioneer companies to lay out and maintain landing fields over any considerable distance. Municipal landing fields are needed. These should be properly laid out in conformity with some general plan and marked so as to be visible from a distance. They must be laid out with reference to their accessibility from the business center of the town.

Since the chief value of airplane travel is its speed, it is obviously of little benefit to save a couple of hours if that time is taken up in getting to and from the landing fields at the terminal cities. As an example, one can go from New York to Philadelphia "every hour on the hour." This takes one from the center of one town to the center of the other in two hours. That's good service. There is little likelihood of airplane competition in this case, because the time saved by air travel would be used up in getting to and from the center of town and the landing field at either end of the route.

The relation of commercial aviation to national defense is important. The Army Air Service does not believe in the need nor in the desirability of a large fleet of military aircraft. It does believe, of course, in the need of a sufficiently large personnel for the working out of improved designs and for building and experimenting with these machines. The life of a military airplane in peace times is approximately two years. In time of war it is two months. In other words, it needs twelve times the factory capacity to supply the army with aircraft during a period of war that it does to keep it equipped with the same number of machines in time of peace.

Just as military planes cannot be effectually used for commercial purposes, neither can planes built for commercial work be used by the military establishment to advantage except in a few cases. It is possible, however, for the factories building commercial planes to change over in from four to eight weeks to the production of military planes—assuming the designs and the necessary experimental machines to have been previously worked out.

Not only would it be difficult to convert civil planes into military ones, but also inadvisable. Just as the railroads, telephones and motor trucks of the country were all overworked during the last war in taking care of their part in the speeded up industry of the country, so would the demand for commercial airplanes increase with the speeding up of industry which would result in the case of another war. To convert civilian aircraft would result in a lack of commercial planes when most needed, and would give to the military establishment a supply of planes only partially suited to the work to be done. To partially convert the manufacturing industry in case of need from the manufacture of civilian planes to the building of military craft is the logical method to pursue.

In Europe the commercial aircraft lines are heavily subsidised, in some cases in the ratio of four dollars from the Government to each dollar collected from the passenger. In France the subsidy is for the construction of more or less convertible planes—for military use if necessary. As previously shown, this does not appear to be an economically sensible thing to do, since the military types of aircraft are too expensive in first cost and in upkeep to be economically practical for business use.

In America there seems little demand or expectation of a Government subsidy. The Government, States and municipalities can, however, help in the matter of landing fields. A few hundred landing fields would pretty well cover the requirements of Western Europe. In America with its big distances there is necessity for not only well-equipped terminal fields, but for thousands of emergency landing fields, all properly marked and mapped, so that the aviator will as far as possibe always be within gliding distance of some safe landing area.

Federal regulation can do much also to keep the wildcat operators out of the field. Considerable harm will be done to the industry if irresponsible men are allowed to operate air lines with inferior craft or insufficiently trained pilots, and an equally great harm will result from the promotion of aerial transportation companies by men more interested in disposing of their securities to the public than in building and operating commercial aircraft which will fly safely, regularly and economically.

There is a rapidly growing interest in aviation. The attendance at a series of meetings on this subject held throughout the country by the Society of Automotive Engineers is one proof of this.

The Gubb Diamond Robbery -:- By Rhoda Montade

"In the immortal phrase of Benjamin Franklin—'Yes!'"

It was Spiffany, the famous jeweler, who spoke.

Mortimer Mudge, the great detective, had just asked him if he would pay $10,000 for the capture of the thief who had stolen the magnificent Gubb diamond, the historic gem that was the pride of the Spiffany collection.

Mudge had just asked him, and Spiffany had said yes. Nothing had been said about the recovery of the diamond.

"It is the principle of the thing," said Spiffany. "I don't mind losing the diamond nearly so much as I do the thought that anybody could be so mean as to walk into my store and take something that my little boy Otto was so fond of. You can't imagine how crazy that boy was about the Gubb diamond. It was his favorite plaything. The paste diamond that the thief substituted doesn't fool him. Of course, it was valuable—worth a million or two, I fancy. And it had a lot of sentiment connected with it—one of Noah's sons—Percy, I believe it was, bought it for a chorus girl in the Ararat Follies, it is said. But it isn't the money that bothers me; it's the principle of the thing. I don't know what the world is coming to. Do you?"

Mudge said no, just to please the old man. Then he asked to be shown the diamond department.

The diamond department was a hollow square of glass show cases set on mahogany counters. Mudge stared at the show cases for perhaps a minute.

"Where was the Gubb diamond kept?"

Spiffany showed him the spot.

"When did you miss it?"

"This morning, when little Otto wanted to take it to school to show the teacher."

"Are you sure Otto didn't swallow it?"

"Yes, I had him X-rayed immediately. We found several smaller gems and a gold ring or two, but not the Gubb."

"Um."

When Mudge said "Um" I knew he was thinking. He leaned against the showcase at the spot where Spiffany had said the Gubb diamond was kept. "This will be a job for you, Snoggs," he said.

We turned to go. Just as we did so a young woman reached the spot where Mudge had stood. She, too, leaned over the show case, examining the gems beneath the glass. Then she appeared to grow faint, swayed weakly for a second, and just as we were about to go to her assistance hurried out.

"Poor girl," said Mudge, "they made her dizzy."

"Never saw that happen to a woman before," said the jeweler, "it's generally the men who get dizzy."

We bade him farewell. "Don't worry," said Mudge, "I'll get him before long."

"Hope you do," replied Spiffany earnestly. "Can I take little Otto to see the trial?"

Mudge was silent until we reached his office. There he bade me be seated and pay close attention.

"Snoggs," he said, "this is a job for you. Here is what I have already deduced: In the first place, that diamond was stolen by a heartless person, one who doesn't like children. That means a young person. In the second place, it was stolen by a gum-chewer."

"What!" I exclaimed. "How do you know that?"

"Never mind how I know," he replied sternly. "But here is what I found under the edge of the diamond counter."

He put his hand in his coat pocket and turned his back to me. When he faced about again he held something toward me.

It was a wad of chewing gum!

"Carefully! Don't squeeze it. See the teeth marks? That's what will enable us to identify the crook. From the size of the wad and the fact that they are marks of the jaw teeth I should say a woman had chewed it, and that she was a gum addict. That's very important, Snoggs—in fact, if that were not the case we might never find the thief."

"How do you know it was an addict's gum?"

"Snoggs, you ought to know that much! The continuous gum-chewer, the person who has gotta have it, chews with his back teeth, the person who can take it or leave it alone just nibbles with his front teeth. Now, here's where you come in.

"If my deductions are correct this person, a confirmed gum-chewer, pretended to examine the Gubb diamond, switched the paste gem to the jewelry clerk, rolled the real gem in this wad of gum, stuck the gum under the counter and left the store. After the excitement of discovering the theft had died down the thief intended to come back, pick up the gum and walk out. An old dodge, but a good one"—

"Well," I cried, "how do you know the thief wouldn't come back now? Are you sure the diamond isn't in the gum now?" And I started to tear open the gum to see.

"Stop!" The great detective's voice compelled obedience. "Don't interrupt," he continued. "I am sure—mark these words, Snoggs—I am sure the diamond is not in that wad of gum! Besides, if you blur the teeth marks how can we find the thief?"

"Yes, how can we, teeth marks or not?" I asked.

"Snoggs, you must do it. You must capture the thief, and claim the reward yourself—paying your own expenses, of course. You must set a trap into which a confirmed gum-chewer would walk."

"What would that be?"

"Simple, Snoggs, simple. You must start a service station on lower Broadway, where more than half the gum east of the Mississippi is chewed, including the the Scandinavian. This will be called Snoggs Service Station; Gum Re-flavored. You can have various advertisements in the papers and on the billboards:

"'Have your favorite quid re-flavored.'

"'Wads rebuilt in all styles and tastes.'

"'Eventually, why not Snoggs?'

"'Don't chew mud; take it to Snoggs—he satisfies.'

"'Let Snoggs handle your gum. By day, week or month.'

"Then you must examine carefully all the gum brought in. When you find a wad with teeth marks in it to match these—that will be the thief. Get me?"

I said I did. I started the service station. I coined money. A year later an old man brought in a quid that matched the gum from Spiffany's. I shoved him down the cellar steps and telephoned Mudge.

"An old man?" he said. "That's not the thief. It was a woman who stole the Gubb diamond."

"But the teeth marks match," I protested.

"Slap the old man in the jaw," he directed. "His teeth will fall out. They are false. Make him tell you where he got them, trace them back to the original owner. That will be a woman—the woman who stole the Gubb diamond. Don't have her arrested—hold her."

I slapped the old man. The teeth fell out. I bribed him with an offer of six months reflavoring service—mint, peppermint, tutti-frutti, spinach, tomato, any flavor he liked—if he would tell me where he got his false teeth.

That brought me to a pawnshop. By a like offer to the pawnbroker I found the person who had pawned the teeth.

And that person, as Mudge had predicted, was a woman.

She was the woman who had nearly fainted at Spiffany's the day Mudge got the jeweler to promise $10,000 for capturing the thief!

In triumph I sent for Mudge. He had a talk in private with the woman. Then he had a private talk with me.

"Snoggs," he said, "would you mind very much if I gave you $10,000 for capturing this woman and say nothing to Spiffany about it?"

I said it would be all right with me if I got the $10,000.

If got it.

"But why?" I asked. "Isn't she the person who took the diamond?"

"One of them," he replied.

"Did she get the diamond the day she fainted in the store? Who has it now? Where is it?" I asked, bewildered.

"Simple, Snoggs, simple. But I'd rather not discuss that part of it now. If you don't mind I just as soon you forgot all about this incident. Keep away from Spiffany, please, and never speak of this to any living soul."

So I never have.

Permata Rubber Estates, Ltd., Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Permata Rubber Estates, Ltd., was held yesterday at the Company's offices. The following report was submitted by the chairman:

"Gentlemen, before commencing the business of the Meeting it is my painful duty to refer to the loss we sustained by the death in May last of our Secretary Mr. E. A. Slee who held the appointment since the Autumn of 1917. A note of condolence by the Directors on behalf of the Company was sent at the time to his sister, who was then in Shanghai.

"At the last Annual Meeting your chairman reported that on the strong recommendation of our Agents Messrs. Sime, Darby & Co. we decided to stop tapping altogether from December 15, 1920 and this was not resumed until September 1, 1921, therefore statistics of output etc. are useless for comparison with those of former years and cost of the small production is naturally very high.

"We have now adopted alternate day tapping and the output for December, viz. 8,888 lbs, shows that the Estate has gained considerable advantage by the long rest to which the trees have been subjected. During last Summer Mr. J. Frost proceeded to Europe and en route at the request of your Directors he visited the Estate and sent us up a report thereon, and his visit was most useful to us and interesting to him. He found everything in good shape but of course, at the time no tapping was being done. Later in the year, Major Sime was in Shanghai for some weeks, and your Directors and Secretary had several opportunities of going into Estate matters with him. On one point we are quite in agreement, namely, the expediency of reducing our Capital so as to bring it down to nearer the present value of your property.

"Major Sime gave us much useful information as to the best way to carry out the scheme cheaply, and to avoid re-registration of the Company in Malacca. A prospectus was prepared and shown to our lawyers, who put everything into training for us, but on finding that the cost of carrying out the reduction would be too great for the Company to bear at the present time, also the value of Rubber after giving promise of improvement, fell again to below 30 cents, it was considered advisable to abandon the projected idea at any rate for the time being."

The business of the meeting included the adoption of the report and accounts, the re-election of Mr. E. W. Noel as director, and the re-appointment of Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews as auditors. Shares numbering 7,077 were represented at the meeting.

The Week's Market Report

In their weekly report of the Shanghai Piece-Goods Trade, Messrs. Noel, Murray and Company write as follows:

Cotton.—There has been a little doing here and there, but it is certain that things have not yet got back into full swing since the opening of the new year. It is probable the orders that have come to hand have been at reduced limits, because of the cheaper prices ruling for Japanese goods, but the lower exchange bars the acceptance of the offers made. There is a very wholesome demand for local cloths, which cannot be made fast enough to please the buyers.

Yarn.—A big business has been done this week, sales aggregating 18,450 bales and 5,500 bales have been taken by the retailers.

Auction.—Offerings amounted to 46,541 pieces and the biddings were irregular and prices for Greys and Whites shewed a general downward tendency. In the Dyed section also bidding was mostly lower.

ROSENFELD REPORT

In their weekly report on the cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton.—Since writing our last week's report in which we advised conservative operations on the bull side of cotton, the market has experienced a sharp advance, principally due to the rise in Mid-Americans and Indians.

The reasons assigned for the recent advance in Mid-American is on the strength of Liverpool market, Government reports construed bullish, a higher Foreign Exchange rate, Foreign buying, Japanese buying, local covering, large exports, speculative buying, big operators buying and heavy Western buying.

As to the China market, the outlook continues very encouraging, and aside from immediate fluctuations in settling the question of the price at which the balance of the crop will be sold, will undoubtedly be found in the outlook of the yarn market. From present indications it is in a quite healthy condition and we therefore continue to feel that purchases should be made on all easy markets.

Yarn.—During the early part of the week the market has been keeping steady and at the close, the price improved some one to two taels with undertone steady. In all some 6 to 7,000 bales have changed hands for export to Canton, Swatow, Hankow, Klangse, Anhwei, Fukien, Szechuen and Northern ports.

SPUNT AND COMPANY

Messrs. J Spunt and Company write as follows in their cotton market report:

China Cotton: Our market, during the past week, may be described as being very quiet, nevertheless prices on the whole continued steady with a firm tendency at the close in sympathy with the upward movement both in Mid-Americans and Indians.

The prospects for the local yarn market are assuming a brighter phase which indicates a diminution in spinners' stocks of cotton and unless advantage is taken of the present ruling rates the general demand which will eventually arise will enhance the value of the raw material both of domestic and forign origin and consumers may have reason to regret having lost the opportunity of replenishing for current needs or providing for future requirements at present rates, which may be considered favorable and at which supplies are as yet obtainable.

The present economic conditions in the world, being such as to encourage more of an optimistic than a pessimistic outlook, one may reasonably deduce the fact that the total quantity of Cotton on hand is not sufficient to supply the present spindleage of the world under anything like normal conditions in demand and with the 1922-3 crop being as yet in its embryonic stage. Tone of the market, firm.

JUTE FABRICS

In the jute fabrics circular dated February 14, Mr. J. A. Fredericks writes as follows:

The business put through since the last circular has been of a very restricted nature, and has been confined to Heavy C's 2¼ lbs. Greenstripe at about Tls. 20.

Heavy C's 2¼ lbs. bluestripe have been neglected altogether. Hessians 45" x 11 oz were done @ Tls. 85-86.

PONGEE SILK

The China Merchants Pongee Association write as follows in connection with the Pongee market at Chefoo:

Writing on February 3, our Chefoo office reports that the silk market has opened firm with upward tendency.

Their report reads as follows:

The market has opened firm with higher prices all around.

Stocks are very small especially of 50 yard and heavy Ninghais.

Some purchases have been made for Shantung at higher prices.

Tussahs are quiet, owing to the dullness of the Japanese markets. Best grades were quoted C. Tls. 820.00 during the week.

HAIRNET MARKET

Messrs. Yannoulatos Bros. (China) write as follows in their report on the hairnet market at Chefoo:

Our Chefoo office writes us under date of February 7 the following regarding the hairnet market of Chefoo.

The market has opened quiet with practically the same prices as reported last.

Stocks are not large and holders are looking forward to higher rates.

Private information has reached this market of the formation of a hairnet Association in New York, one of its objects being the discouraging of the making of Double Nets. Nevertheless, fairly large orders for Double Nets are being placed in this market from that market.

LACE MARKET

Messrs. Industrial Export (China) Company write as follows in their report on the lace market:

There is a demand for 6 and 9 Hole Filet from the U.S.A., and prices have advanced slightly since our last report. Irish Beading has also advanced, and should the demand continue, higher prices will no doubt be ruling. Some orders and enquiries for Filet laces have also been received from England.

Can any woman resist the lure of gay lights, fine clothes and the fruits that money will buy?

Balfour Feted On His Return To London, Lauds U.S.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 16.—Mr. Balfour was given a luncheon by the Government on his return from Washington. Mr. Lloyd George presided and paid a tribute to the prominent part Mr. Balfour played at the Conference, which, he said, was one of the most notable contributions of statesmanship to human peace and happiness. The Prime Minister read a message from President Harding of appreciation of Mr. Balfour's assistance.

Mr. Balfour replied, emphasising the uncountable debt of gratitude to the United States' Government for its action throughout the negotiations which had not merely settled the land problems of the Far East, the naval problems of the Pacific and the question of naval disarmament in Europe, but had transformed international relations.

Mr. Balfour on entering the House of Commons received an ovation, all the members rising and cheering.

Anfu Leader To Come To Oppose Wu Pei-fu

He is travelling with three Japanese body-guards according to the report, because of the spies of Wu Pei-fu, Tsao Kun, and President Hsu who are shadowing him.

A MOMENTOUS DRAMA OF TO-DAY
A PLAY FOR THE THINKER
A WONDERFUL ENTERTAINMENT FOR ALL

"The GREATEST QUESTION"

A drama of the way of destiny with "just folks"—plain human beings—fighting the battles of life in their own way. Picturing their virtues and frailties so graphically that you will laugh and cry with them—hate and love with them—as your emotions react to Griffith's masterly interpretation of humanity's greatest question.

And as you see the characters struggling on—sometimes fighting the current of life, sometimes mounting the crest of a wave of success, sometimes helplessly drifting or hurled against a catastrophe that wrecks a life—you'll marvel with Griffith at the greatest question in life.

Poignant Drama—Hilarious Comedy—Stern Tragedy-Love-Life!

DOROTHY GISH THE LITTLE DISTURBER of D. W. GRIFFITH'S "HEARTS OF THE WORLD"

A Girl's devotion to the contents of a Hope Chest: the tender affection which is held in every heart for the things that Mother did.

The story tells of what might occur to any young woman, but the situations are handled in such a manner that there is a constant suspense and wonderment as to what is to follow. The support is excellent.
